Address

of the President of A.C.C.I., Mr Ioannis Bratakos

In an international environment marked by uncertainty, geopolitical tensions, and the consequences of the climate and energy crisis, global trade is called upon to respond to new, complex challenges.

Businesses that manage to adapt quickly, invest in innovation, and expand their presence in new markets are those that succeed in ensuring resilience and sustainable growth.

Within this context, Greek export-oriented enterprises consistently demonstrate that they possess the qualities that the present era requires: flexibility, creativity, commitment to quality, and strong outward orientation.

In recent years, Greek exports have steadily strengthened their position in global trade, achieving significant market shares both within and beyond the European Union. Geographic diversification and a shift toward new, emerging destinations confirm that Greece is ready to compete effectively in a globalized environment.

The resilient trajectory of Greek exports in recent years reflects businesses' consistent focus and investment in new technologies, digitalization, and sustainable production. It also highlights their commitment to building long-term relationships of trust with international partners, based on reliability and quality.

At the same time, outward orientation is emerging as a fundamental pillar of the new development model being built in the Greek economy.

The strengthening of exports, active participation in global value chains, attraction of investments, and steady presence in high-standard markets form the foundation for a more resilient, sustainable, and competitive production model.

Greek enterprises have both the capability and the willingness to support this transition. They possess the determination and vision not only to follow global trends but also to help shape them, leveraging the knowledge, talent, and innovation that characterize the country's human capital.

The Athens Chamber of Commerce and Industry remains steadfast in supporting this effort. As a key driver of extroversion for its member businesses, ACCI designs and implements targeted activities to support exports: from business missions and international cooperation forums to participation in major industry exhibitions and the provision of reliable business information. At the same time, it facilitates access to financial tools, supports innovation, and strengthens networking with strategic partners around the world.

This year's edition of the Greek Export Directory once again serves as a valuable introduction to the dynamic, multifaceted, and highly competitive Greek entrepreneurship. I am confident that the following pages will showcase the breadth and quality of Greek products and services, as well as the vision of the people who create them.

Greece is a country with a strong tradition, significant comparative advantages, and businesses that look toward the future and the world. We invite you to join us on this journey toward greater extroversion, collaboration, and mutual progress.

Χαιρετισμός

του Προέδρου του Ε.Β.Ε.Α. κ. Ιωάννη Μπρατάκου

Σε ένα διεθνές περιβάλλον που χαρακτηρίζεται από αβεβαιότητα, γεωπολιτικές εντάσεις και τις συνέπειες της κλιματικής και ενεργειακής κρίσης, το παγκόσμιο εμπόριο καλείται να ανταποκριθεί σε νέες, σύνθετες προκλήσεις.

Οι επιχειρήσεις που καταφέρνουν να προσαρμόζονται ταχύτερα, να επενδύουν στην καινοτομία και να διευρύνουν την παρουσία τους σε νέες αγορές είναι εκείνες που κατορθώνουν να διασφαλίζουν ανθεκτικότητα και βιώσιμη ανάπτυξη.

Σε αυτό το πλαίσιο, οι ελληνικές εξαγωγικές επιχειρήσεις αποδεικνύουν διαρκώς ότι διαθέτουν τα χαρακτηριστικά που απαιτούν οι καιροί: ευελιξία, δημιουργικότητα, προσήλωση στην ποιότητα και ισχυρή εξωστρέφεια.

Τα τελευταία χρόνια, οι ελληνικές εξαγωγές ενισχύουν σταθερά τη θέση τους στο διεθνές εμπόριο, επιτυγχάνοντας σημαντικά μερίδια σε αγορές εντός και εκτός Ευρωπαϊκής Ένωσης. Η γεωγραφική διαφοροποίηση και η στροφή σε νέους, ανερχόμενους προορισμούς επιβεβαιώνουν ότι η Ελλάδα είναι έτοιμη να ανταγωνιστεί επάξια σε ένα παγκοσμιοποιημένο περιβάλλον.

Η ανθεκτική πορεία των ελληνικών εξαγωγών τα τελευταία χρόνια, αντανακλά τη σταθερή εστίαση και επένδυση των επιχειρήσεων σε νέες τεχνολογίες, στην ψηφιοποίηση και στη βιώσιμη παραγωγή. Αποτυπώνει επίσης τη δέσμευσή τους στην οικοδόμηση μακροχρόνιων σχέσεων εμπιστοσύνης με διεθνείς εταίρους, στη βάση της αξιοπιστίας και της ποιότητας.

Την ίδια στιγμή, η εξωστρέφεια αναδεικνύεται σε θεμελιώδη πυλώνα του νέου αναπτυξιακού υποδείγματος, που οικοδομείται στην ελληνική οικονομία.

Η ενίσχυση των εξαγωγών, η ενεργός συμμετοχή σε διεθνείς αλυσίδες αξίας, η προσέλκυση επενδύσεων και η σταθερή παρουσία σε αγορές υψηλών προδιαγραφών συνθέτουν τη βάση για ένα πιο ανθεκτικό, βιώσιμο και ανταγωνιστικό παραγωγικό μοντέλο.

Οι ελληνικές επιχειρήσεις έχουν τη δυνατότητα και τη διάθεση να στηρίξουν αυτή τη μετάβαση. Διαθέτουν την αποφασιστικότητα και το όραμα, όχι μόνο να ακολουθήσουν τις παγκόσμιες τάσεις, αλλά να τις συνδιαμορφώσουν, αξιοποιώντας τη γνώση, το ταλέντο και την καινοτομία που χαρακτηρίζουν το ανθρώπινο δυναμικό της χώρας.

Το Εμπορικό και Βιομηχανικό Επιμελητήριο Αθηνών βρίσκεται σταθερά δίπλα σε αυτήν την προσπάθεια. Ως κεντρικός βραχίονας εξωστρέφειας για τις επιχειρήσεις-μέλη του, το ΕΒΕΑ σχεδιάζει και υλοποιεί στοχευμένες δράσεις για τη στήριξη των εξαγωγών: από επιχειρηματικές αποστολές και διεθνή φόρουμ συνεργασίας, έως συμμετοχή σε μεγάλες κλαδικές εκθέσεις και παροχή έγκυρης επιχειρηματικής πληροφόρησης. Παράλληλα, διευκολύνει την πρόσβαση σε χρηματοδοτικά εργαλεία, στηρίζει την καινοτομία και ενισχύει τη δικτύωση με στρατηγικούς εταίρους σε όλο τον κόσμο.

Η φετινή έκδοση του Οδηγού Ελλήνων Εξαγωγέων αποτελεί για μία ακόμη χρονιά έναν πολύτιμο οδηγό γνωριμίας με τη δυναμική, πολυσχιδή και εξαιρετικά ανταγωνιστική ελληνική επιχειρηματικότητα. Είμαι βέβαιος ότι οι σελίδες που ακολουθούν θα αναδείξουν το εύρος και την ποιότητα των ελληνικών προϊόντων και υπηρεσιών, αλλά και το όραμα των ανθρώπων που τα δημιουργούν.

Η Ελλάδα είναι μια χώρα με ισχυρή παράδοση, με σπουδαία συγκριτικά πλεονεκτήματα, με επιχειρήσεις που στρέφουν το βλέμμα τους στο μέλλον, στον κόσμο. Σας καλούμε να μοιραστείτε μαζί μας αυτό το ταξίδι προς περισσότερη εξωστρέφεια, συνεργασία και αμοιβαία πρόοδο.

TRADE BALANCE

Greek exports experienced a decline in 2024, continuing the downward trend observed in the previous year. Specifically, the total export value (including oil products) approached €50.0 billion in 2024, representing a decrease of 2.1% compared to 2023 and 10.4% relative to the record year of 2022. Nevertheless, it is worth noting that Greek exports remain at significantly higher levels than those recorded five or ten years ago, with 2024 marking their third-best performance on record. Conversely, excluding oil products, the value of Greek exports amounts to €36.1 billion, reflecting an increase of 2.5% compared to 2023 and remaining just 0.3% below the level achieved in 2022.

Meanwhile, imports (including oil products) increased by 2.3% in 2024, reaching €85.0 billion, remaining, however, approximately €9.5 billion below the levels recorded in 2022. In contrast, excluding oil products, imports achieved a record high in 2024, amounting to €64.4 billion – surpassing those of 2023 by 4.4% and those of 2022 by 2.1%. Consequently, the trade deficit (including oil products) increased by 9.3% in 2024 – reaching €35.1 billion – compared to €32.1 billion in 2023, which represented a 17.3% decrease relative to the previous year's record high of €38.8 billion. Excluding oil products, the trade deficit reached its highest level of the past decade in 2024, amounting to €28.2 billion – exceeding the corresponding deficit of 2023 by 7%.

On average, the value of exports amounts to approximately 60% of the value of imports. More than half (55.0%) of the total value of Greek exports (including oil products) was directed to European Union member states in 2024. Nevertheless, this value declined by 5.7%, or €1.7 billion, compared to 2023. In contrast, export values to North America and the Middle East increased by €324.6 million (12.7%) and €276.9 million (4.9%), respectively.

During the first seven months of 2025, a notable divergence was observed in the evolution of exports and imports, depending on whether oil products were included in the dataset. Specifically, according to the latest provisional data from Hellenic Statistical Authority (EL.STAT.), the total value of Greek exports declined during the first seven months of 2025, amounting to €28.5 billion compared to €30.0 billion of the same period of 2024 – a decrease of 5%. In contrast, excluding oil products, exports rose to €22.1 billion, marking a 5.4% increase over the €21.0 billion recorded in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Similarly, imports, including oil products, declined by 2.8% during the same period, amounting to €48.0 billion, whereas, excluding them, imports reached €38.7 billion, recording an increase of 4.8%. Based on the aforementioned data, the total trade deficit reached €19.5 billion during the first seven months of 2025, reflecting a marginal increase of 0.5% compared to that recorded in the corresponding period of 2024. On the other hand, excluding oil products, the trade deficit for the January – July

GEOGRAPHICAL EXPORT DISTRIBUTION

The increase in exports to North America and the Middle East was insufficient to offset the decline recorded in exports to European Union member states, which ultimately led to the overall decrease of Greece's exports in 2024. A downward trend was also observed in the value of exports to Eurozone, OECD, OPEC, and BSEC countries, as well as to the G7 and BRICS groups. Meanwhile, the 1.1% increase in exports to Gulf countries had a negligible impact, due to both the modest absolute rise (€10.3 million) and the limited share of this category in total exports (1.8%).

Italy remained Greece's leading export destination in 2024, as was during 2023, accounting for 10.5% of the total value of Greek exports. It was followed by Germany with a 7.1% share, Cyprus with 6.6%, and Bulgaria – second in the previous year – ranked fourth with 5.9% (6.9% in 2023). The top five groups were completed by USA, with a share of 4.8%. Notably, in both 2023 and 2024, the ten largest importers of Greek products accounted for more than half of total export value, while the top twenty collectively represented approximately three-quarters.

Among the top 20 importers of Greek products, ten countries recorded an increase in the value of imports (compared to 2023), amounting to a cumulative rise of €2.0 billion, whereas the remaining ten countries experienced a combined decline of €3.3 billion. Notable shifts were also observed in the composition of the top importers compared to the 2023 rankings. Specifically, Belgium, which ranked 18th in 2023 based on the value of imports from Greece, fell to 21st place in 2024, and Egypt, previously ranked 23rd, rose to 19th position in 2024.

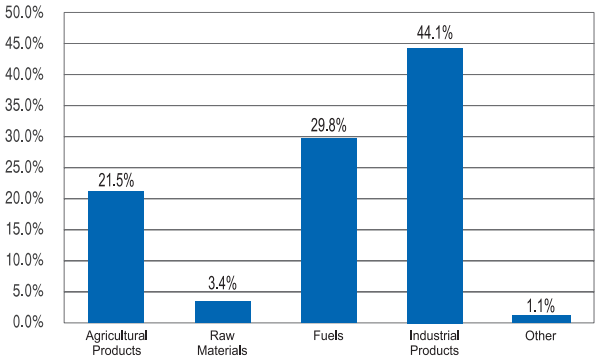
DISTRIBUTION OF EXPORTS BY PRODUCT CATEGORY



Industrial Products – including Chemicals, Machinery etc. – remained the leading export sector of Greece in 2024, accounting for 44.1% of the total export value. Fuels, even with a 9.5% drop compared to 2023, followed with a 29.8% share, while Agricultural Products, whose export value increased by 4.0%, represented 21.5% of the overall export value.

Raw Materials, despite a 7.4% increase in export value compared to the previous year, continue to hold a modest share of 3.4% of total exports, whereas the Other Category – whose export value declined by 6.9% – maintained its previous year's share at 1.2%.

Regarding individual product categories, the largest share of exports in 2024 originated from Food and Live Animals,

FISH HATCHERIES

STRUCTURE AND BREAKDOWN OF THE SECTOR

The fish hatcheries sector in Greece is strongly export-oriented, with the country holding a leading position in Europe. It stands as the EU's largest producer of seabream and seabass, plays a pivotal role in the Mediterranean region, and ranks fourth in overall marine fish farming production across Europe.

The sector was initially composed of numerous medium-sized and family-run businesses, the majority of which continue to operate on a limited scale. Over time, however, a series of mergers and acquisitions led to the concentration of production among a limited number of dominant companies, which restructured the industry in response to financial pressures and in pursuit of economies of scale.

Leading firms expanded the scope of their services and reinforced their distribution networks. They also implemented vertical integration across their operations, which now encompasses the entire value chain – from juveniles and feed production to packaging and distribution – while most companies in the sector continue to focus exclusively on fish fattening.

According to the most recent data available from the Hellenic Statistical Authority (EL.STAT.), in 2022 there were 363 active companies operating in the sector, employing a total of 5,501 people and generating a combined annual sales amount to €1.3 billion.

PRODUCTION

The main products of Greek marine aquaculture are seabream and seabass, while organic farming of these species and the expansion into new species, such as meagre and greater amberjack, remain limited in scale.

Seabream and seabass production in Greece increased significantly over the past two decades, leading to oversupply and a subsequent decline in prices. In 2020, production decreased as the pandemic caused a decrease in domestic demand, while over the following two years, production recovered, reaching notably elevated levels in 2022. However, in 2023 and 2024, the sector faced major challenges, with production falling to 115 thousand tons in 2024 (-5.2%), valued at €678.5 million. For 2025, projections are optimistic, with production expected to reach 119 thousand tons.

Regarding the structure of total production by fish category, seabream has consistently represented the predominant segment. Specifically, in 2024, seabream production is estimated at 62,000 tons, accounting for 53.9% of the total volume, while seabass production, projected at 53,000 tons, covered the remaining (46.1%). The leading companies in the sector are estimated to account for approximately 80% of domestic production, underscoring the high degree of market concentration.

EXTERNAL TRADE

The Greek fish hatcheries sector is strongly export-oriented, with approximately 90% of total production directed to international markets. In 2024, exports are estimated at between 112 and 116 thousand tons, with seabream accounting for 52% of total volume. Italy (31.6%) and Spain (30.0%) are the primary destination markets, followed by France, United States, and Netherlands with smaller shares. Collectively, these five countries absorbed 79% of seabream and seabass exports in 2024, highlighting the concentration of demand in specific international markets.

Corresponding imports have shown an upward trend in recent years, with Turkey dominating the market due to its competitive pricing, accounting for 99% of the total import value in 2024. Although imported volumes increased significantly that year, reaching 19.5 thousand tons, they remain a complementary source of domestic production. In terms of quantity, seabream imports covered 54.2% of demand in 2024, compared to 63.3% in 2023.

DOMESTIC MARKET

Domestic consumption of seabream and seabass has experienced a slight decline in recent years, reaching 21 thousand tons in 2024, compared to 21.2 thousand tons in 2023 and 22.7 thousand tons in 2022. Despite the limited supply to the Greek market – attributable to the sector's export-oriented nature – 2025 is expected to be a more promising year, with consumption projected to reach 22 thousand tons, partly due to the reduction in fish feed prices.

PROSPECTS

Fish farming is a strategic sector of Greece's primary production, with strong contribution to the national economy and trade balance. Favorable climate and geography support its development, while seabream and seabass consistently rank among the country's top exports, holding a leading position in the European market.

Price competition remains a key challenge for the sector, as lower production costs in competing markets exert pressure on the price of domestically produced fish. Nevertheless, Greek products retain a strong position in European markets, primarily due to their high quality. To safeguard this competitive position, ongoing modernization and the implementation of more sustainable and efficient production practices are considered essential.

Both production and domestic consumption of seabream and seabass are expected to experience a modest increase in 2025.The continued decline in the cost of fish feed represents a favorable development for companies operating within the sector, whereas, provided that external conditions remain stable and no significant disruptions occur, the upward trajectory of production is anticipated to continue, with an estimated average annual growth rate of 3% through 2027. Furthermore, spatial planning through the establishment of Aquaculture Development Zones is regarded as a strategically important initiative, aimed at strengthening the country's overall production capacity.

PROPOSALS TO STRENGTHEN COMPANY COMPETITIVENESS

Given the intense competition in the fish farming sector, driven by the large number of active enterprises, companies must, in alignment with current market conditions, strategically focus on the following key areas to strengthen their market position:

- Leveraging new technologies and innovations with the aim of reducing costs and producing higher value-added products.
- Cultivation of new fish species, aimed at diversifying the product portfolio, seeks to enhance the international competitiveness of Greek fish farming.
- Development of new products tailored to modern consumer needs, such as fillets or ready-to-eat meals.
- Systematic communication and marketing efforts aimed at further strengthening the international presence of Greek fish farming and highlighting the high quality of its products.
- Investments and R&D to modernize facilities and adopt sustainable technologies, aiming to reduce mortality rates and accelerate fish production.
- Implementation of Aquaculture Development Zones to significantly increase production capacity.

OLIVE OIL

STRUCTURE AND BREAKDOWN OF THE SECTOR

Greece is recognized as one of the world's leading producers of olive oil and, according to forecasts by the European Commission for the 2024/25 period, the country ranks second in Europe, following Spain. The production process begins with the receipt of raw materials and concludes with the distribution of the final product. Olive mills constitute the initial stage of this chain, producing olive oil that is either sold in bulk for direct consumption, distributed to wholesalers for resale, or delivered to processing and packaging companies.

The sector is composed of plenty of enterprises that vary in size and scope of activity. Agricultural cooperatives also play a significant role, as they collect the products of their members and undertake their marketing, processing, and packaging. According to the latest available data from the Hellenic Statistical Authority (EL.STAT.) for 2022, a total of 1,912 oil and fat production enterprises were registered, marking an 1.3% increase compared to 2021. These businesses employed approximately 6,100 individuals and generated a total turnover of €2.13 million, reflecting a 45.9% increase year-over-year. It is also noteworthy that, according to the Ministry of Rural Development and Food, there are 771 certified olive oil packaging units operating across the country, with approximately 45% of them located in the Peloponnese and Crete.

Competition in the sector is particularly intense, especially among companies offering branded, packaged products, forcing them to invest in promotional activities and marketing strategies. At the same time, the growing presence of private label products, which are offered at lower prices, further intensifies competition. However, the most significant challenge facing the sector remains the unfair competition from producers who distribute bulk olive oil without adhering to standard packaging and quality control regulations. This phenomenon, combined with inflationary pressures and the decline in consumers' purchasing power, is prompting a shift toward more economical alternatives, negatively impacting branded businesses in the industry.

PRODUCTION

The majority of domestic olive oil production in Greece is distributed in bulk form, both within the local market and internationally, while the sector also demonstrates notable levels of stockpiling. Exports on average account for over 60% of total production in the last years, as domestic demand is fully covered by local supply.

Production is directly affected by weather and climate conditions, as well as by the olive fruit fly, which poses a major threat to olive cultivation. Additionally, the sector is marked by strong cyclicality, with productive seasons typically followed by underperforming ones, and the production cycle usually lasting one to two years. Due to significant annual fluctuations, six-year average comparisons are considered more representative.

During the most recent six-year period (2019/20 – 2024/25), the average annual production is estimated at 258.7 thousand tons, reflecting a 5% increase compared to the previous six-year period. According to the European Commission and the International Olive Council, olive oil production in Greece for the 2023/24 season is estimated at 175 thousand tons, a decrease of 49.3% compared to the previous year, whereas for 2024/25, a strong recovery is projected, with production expected to reach 250 thousand tons – an increase of 42.9%.

Diagram 9

Fluctuations in Import and Export Values (2015 – 2024)

EXTERNAL TRADE

Over the past decade, olive oil imports into Greece have exhibited annual fluctuations, although they have consistently remained at limited levels in terms of both volume and value. Specifically, in 2023, imports amounted to 1,821 tons, reflecting a decline compared to the previous year, when they stood at 2,286 tons. In contrast, 2024 performed a notable increase, with import volumes reaching 2,793 tons – an annual rise of 53.4%. In value terms, olive oil imports totaled €18 million in 2024, representing a 63% increase compared to €11 million in 2023, demonstrating, nevertheless, considerable volatility throughout the reference period.

Likewise, olive oil exports from Greece during the period 2012 – 2024 have exhibited notable fluctuations in both volume and value. In 2023, export volumes increased compared to 2022, reaching 195.5 thousand tons and rosing an export value of €1,168 million. Conversely, in 2024, exports declined, with volumes falling to approximately 118.4 thousand tons and total export value amounting €940 million, which represents a decrease of 39.4% in volume and 19.5% in value.

It is also worth noting that a significant increase in the average selling price of olive oil has been recorded over the past two years. Specifically, in 2023, the average price reached €5.97/kg, reflecting a 31.1% increase compared to 2022, while in 2024 it further escalated to €7.94/kg, representing an annual growth of 32.9%. This price surge is primarily attributed to climate change and prolonged drought conditions in competing Mediterranean countries, which led to olive oil shortages in pre vious years. Moreover, rising production costs – driven by broader market disruptions such as the COVID-19 pandemic, the energy crisis, and geopolitical instability – have further reinforced the price escalation.

Regarding the composition of olive oil exports by category, virgin edible olive oil has consistently accounted for the largest share over time, representing 90.3% of total export value and 85.5% of total export volume in 2024. Italy remained the leading importer of Greek olive oil, once again absorbing the largest quantities, with imports amounting to 1.6 thousand tons of "lampante" olive oil, 60.4 thousand tons of "virgin edible" olive oil, and 9.3 thousand tons of "other non-virgin" olive oil.

DOMESTIC MARKET

In recent years, domestic olive oil consumption has exhibited a downward trend, remaining at limited levels. During the 2023/24 period, consumption was recorded at 90.5 thousand tons, reflecting a 6.2% decline compared to the previous season. However, according to the International Olive Council, consumption during the latest olive-growing year is projected to increase for the first time in six years, reaching approximately 110 thousand tons – an increase of 21.5% year-on-year. This anticipated recovery is attributed to higher production volumes and the gradual normalization of previously elevated price levels. In terms of value, the total domestic olive oil market is estimated at approximately €675 million for the 2023/24 olive-growing season, while projections indicate it will decline to around €560 million in 2024/25.

The olive oil market has increasingly adopted an export-oriented profile, with domestic consumption absorbing, on average, only 36% of total production during the 2022/23 and 2023/24 period. This trend is primarily driven by higher price levels in international markets and changes in Greek dietary habits, including the growing penetration of alternative oils such as seed oils. Regarding the structure of the domestic olive oil market, the majority of total consumption is covered by non-packaged (bulk) olive oil, which accounts for approximately 70% – 75% of the market share (including quantities used for personal consumption).

According to industry sources, Spain and Italy import bulk Greek olive oil, which is subsequently blended with other olive oils and re-exported as Spanish or Italian products at higher price points. This practice has adverse implications both for the Greek economy and the perceived quality of Greek olive oil.

PROSPECTS

The olive oil market in Greece, as in other European countries, began to recover in early 2025, primarily due to improved climatic conditions. According to industry stakeholders, initial indications from olive cultivation are optimistic, with forecasts pointing to an increase in production. Combined with similarly positive projections for Spain's output, this is expected to lead to sufficient supply levels and, consequently, to further reduction in prices from the elevated levels of recent years, supporting a continued recovery of the olive oil market.

Based on current market conditions – and assuming no unforeseen extreme weather events – domestic olive oil demand is expected to increase over the next two years (2025/26, 2026/27), with an average annual growth rate of approximately 13%. This projected growth is primarily driven by declining price levels and the anticipated rise in tourist arrivals.

PROPOSALS TO STRENGTHEN COMPANY COMPETITIVENESS

The main strategic directions that companies in the sector are expected to pursue in order to strengthen their competitiveness in the market are as follows:

- Emphasis on the high quality of Greek olive oil through targeted promotion and advertising efforts.
- Coordinated efforts by the relevant authorities to boost exports of standardized (packaged) olive oil and to support the development of strong, recognizable brands.
- Collaboration among companies to achieve economies of scale, reduce production costs, and increase the output of standardized (packaged) olive oil.
- Mitigation of credit risk arising from transactions with various clients.
- Leveraging the potential for substituting other crops with olive cultivation.

TABLE OLIVES

STRUCTURE AND BREAKDOWN OF THE SECTOR

The table olive sector represents one of the most outward-oriented branches of the Greek economy, encompassing a wide range of enterprises engaged in the processing and packaging of olives, either for their own account or on behalf of third parties. A significant proportion of these businesses exhibit a strong export orientation, allocating a substantial share of their production to international markets. In addition, numerous agricultural cooperatives are actively involved in the sector, undertaking the collection, processing, packaging, and commercial distribution of their members' produce.

The price of table olives fluctuates primarily due to variations in production across olive-growing seasons and the level of available stocks. Although consumption remains a core element of the Mediterranean diet, the gradual decline in Greece's population may lead to a reduction in domestic demand. In contrast, international demand is reinforced through targeted promotional initiatives led by relevant institutions. Greece produces exceptional table olive varieties, with "Halkidiki" accounting for approximately 50% of national output and "Conservolea" around 30%, followed by smaller quantities of "Kalamon," "Throuba," and "Gaidouria."

PRODUCTION

In Greece, table olive production consistently exceeds internal demand, resulting in the majority of output being exported. Key factors such as weather conditions, infestations by the olive fruit fly, and the cyclical nature of olive cultivation significantly affect both the quantity and quality of production, leading to notable annual fluctuations. As a result, six-year average comparisons are considered more objective for assessing production trends. For the period 2019/20 – 2024/25, the average annual production stands at 216.8 thousand tons, representing a 7.3% increase compared to the previous six-year period (2013/14 – 2018/19).

Table olive production in Greece experienced a sharp decline during the 2023/24 season, due to adverse weather conditions, falling to 110 thousand tons – a 66.2% decrease compared to the previous year (325 thousand tons). However, according to estimates by the International Olive Council, production is expected to increase significantly in 2024/25, reaching 239 thousand tons, representing a 117.3% rise.

EXTERNAL TRADE

Domestic table olive production in Greece exceeds demand, resulting in limited imports, which mainly concern packaged products or olives intended for re-export after processing. In 2024, imports increased by 9.2%, reaching 26.2 thousand tons, valued at €35.4 million, with 89.5% consisting of prepared and preserved olives.

Exports of table olives largely depend on domestic production, which is closely linked to the cyclical nature of cultivation and prevailing weather conditions and, as a result, annual export volumes fluctuate significantly. Although, over the past decade, the quantity of exported table olives has increased by 29%, in 2024, exports saw a slight decline of 3.6% compared to 2023, with a total of 230.7 thousand tons delivered overseas. Despite this drop in volume, the export value rose significantly by 24.1%, reaching €795.8 million, suggesting a notable increase in the average export price of table olives in 2024.

Table olive exports are categorized into three main product groups: "prepared – preserved olives," "olives for other uses," and "others", excluding edible olives. Exports of the first category alone amounted to 203.5 thousand tons in 2024, marking a 4.5% decrease compared to 2023. The main destination countries for "prepared – preserved" olives in 2024 were the United States, Italy, and Germany, which together accounted for 42% of total exports.

The Balassa index for table olives approaches +1, highlighting the strong competitiveness of this product category, while the trade balance remains consistently in surplus, recording a significant increase of 24.0% in 2024 compared to the previous year.

DOMESTIC MARKET

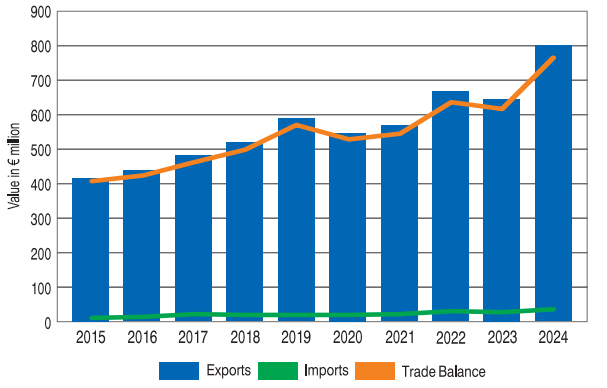
Domestic consumption of table olives was maintained at 15 thousand tons during the last two periods and is projected to reach 15.5 thousand tons in the 2024/25. The average annual consumption over the 2019/20 – 2024/25 period falls short of the levels recorded during 2013/14 – 2018/19, primarily due to the substantial decline in demand from the foodservice sector, as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

It is also noted that the majority of table olives available in the domestic market are distributed in bulk form.

PROSPECTS

Domestic production of table olives is subject to annual fluctuations, primarily attributable to unpredictable weather conditions and the inherent cyclicality of olive cultivation. Nonetheless, over the past fifteen years, production volumes have increased substantially, driven by the sustained growth in international demand for table olives. In recent years, export volumes have ranged between 230,000 and 240,000 tons, compared to 130,000–150,000 tons in the early part of the previous decade.

Conversely, domestic consumption is considered as mature, with limited prospects for expansion. For the current year (2024/25), projections are optimistic, anticipating a notable increase in domestic production, although consumption levels are expected to remain relatively stable over the next one to two years. Factors such as the gradual easing of inflationary pressures, the anticipated decline in olive prices due to increased supply, and the continued growth of the tourism sector constitute encouraging indicators for the future trajectory of demand.



PROPOSALS TO STRENGTHEN COMPANY COMPETITIVENESS

The main strategic pillars on which the sector's companies are expected to focus in order to enhance their competitiveness in the market are the following:

- Strengthening export performance and penetrating new foreign markets.
- Systematic promotion of Greek olives in international markets by relevant institutions, highlighting their superior quality.
- Capitalizing on the opportunity to replace other crops with intensive olive farming.
- Increasing the market share of packaged olives through the development of e-commerce channels.
- Development of higher value-added olive-based products and promotion of organic cultivation.

Taste the Authentic

Tradition in Cheesemaking

For 50 years now, VALMAS Company produces traditional cheese products, collecting daily, fresh sheep and goats' milk from selected breeders across the northern parts of Greece, Central Macedonia. Our products are produced in modern cheesemaking facilities, in Chalkidiki, Northern Greece. In every step of the process, from milk collection to packing, strict quality controls are applied so that the end product can maintain its high quality, nutrients and exceptional taste.

Tradition in Feta

VALMAS Company produces the reputed for its rich and buttery taste, FETA VALMA. A product that dominated consumer preferences in Northern Greece and is asked by its name.
